

MEANDERING IN MIDDLETON

Another very nice walk last week in some beautiful Sussex weather!

We were again a very select little group and the walk took in some lovely, varied pathways around the Middleton Area. As we have had very little rain of late, the paths through the woods were dry making walking easy. Even though I have lived in Middleton for 15 years, I had not been to Worms Wood area before, so I surprised how large it is. The blackbirds were certainly pleased to have our company by the way they were singing out their tunes and it is certainly a dog walkers paradise. I even spotted a lovely, thatched cottage that I must have passed on many occasions but had never noticed. Due to the recent warm weather the gardens were sprouting with many species of flowers and shrubs. Spring has certainly arrived. Looking forward to the next walk too discover more of the area. – KEVIN

Just to let you know that the walk (June 8th) was lovely. I really enjoyed it and the blend of woodland and coast was perfect. As Oliver Twist would say "Please sir can we have more". - Clare.

A walk in Middleton on a lovely sunny day what more could you want in great company. It was my first walk with the Gentle Walking Group since before the first lockdown and it was lovely to see everyone face to face and catch up in person. Worms Wood was an area I had not visited before and that combine with the coast made for a very good morning. Thank you, Kevin for a great walk looking forward to the next one. - Gill
