Fiction
The Ministry for the Future	Kim Stanley Robinson	"It opens like a slow-motion disaster movie...a heatwave of unsurvivable "wet-bulb" temperatures in a small Indian town kills nearly all its inhabitants in a week...there is much hard science, of atmospheric and oceanic physics, usually helpfully explained by a passing expert; but also speculative military strategy... Robinson shows that an ambitious systems novel about global heating must in fact be an ambitious systems novel about modern civilisation." Guardian	2020
Riders on the Storm: The Climate Crisis and the Survival of Being	Alistair MacIntosh	"Ecologist Alastair McIntosh's latest work could not be more timely ... Riders on the Storm offers a profusion of ideas, written with insight, honesty and wit" The Herald	2020
