

Sherbourne Wins Silver

By Mo Ireland

I may not be too good with words, and what I write is quite absurd

But I hear today is a special day in the history of our U3A

It's the silver anniversary you see, of its founding in nineteen ninety-three

Who would have even guessed the story of its success

A thing that sometimes bothers me , is the name selected by the

Coventry Sherbourne, its appellation, which is odd considering its location

The River Sowe is right nearby, so what's in a name I hear you cry But Sowe does not have the panache, while Sherbourne gives it a touch of class.

It's on a Thursday afternoon we meet and listen to a presenter speak

I look around me quite discrete and notice some are half asleep

Scrabble, reading, art and sewing are some of the groups ongoing

But I 've come to the conclusion that, what we do best of all is CHAT!
