

The SW London network of U3As is pleased to announce a study day at the WWT London Wetland Centre on Wednesday 4th September.

This will include 2 talks on the work of the Wetlands Centre in London and the work done internationally by the Wildfowl and Wetlands Trust followed by a guided walk round the centre. Bring binoculars if you have them. Lunch is available in the centre's cafe.

The Wildfowl & Wetlands Trust (WWT) is one of the world's largest and most respected wetland conservation organisations working globally to safeguard and improve wetlands for wildlife and people. Founded in the UK in 1946 by the late Sir Peter Scott, today they complement wetland conservation work carried out worldwide with a network of nine UK visitor centres

WWT London Wetland Centre is an award winning visitor attraction bringing the countryside to London. The site supports a wealth of wetland wildlife including colourful wild ducks, frogs, and a colony of water voles, lizards and migratory birds which arrive in large numbers from around the globe. It is also a haven for people, whether relaxing watching the wildlife from one of the special viewing hides, enjoying a walk around the reserve or having a meal in the Water's Edge Cafe.
