All taken on Nikon bridge camera:

Minor cropping and slight colour enhancement. I thought this was an interesting shot of the palm trees in front of a Greek temple right in the middle of Glasgow. Could this be a mirage?

Study of tree branches reflected in the ripples on the pond benefits from having an Arctic filter added No cropping was required.

In all 4 there was very limited cropping - certainly no more than 3-5%. Also since the day was rather dreary, I boosted the saturation by 7% so as to stop the colours being so washed out. Finally, I am prone to wobbling my verticals, and thus straightened the chimney stack very slightly.
