Airman 2nd class (Air Mechanic) John William Shepherd No 82007 Royal flying Corps. He drowned in the sinking of the Hospital Transport ship, Aragon, off Alexandria, Egypt on 30th December 1917, aged 39. He was the son of Christopher, a baker & confectioner, and Eleanor Shepherd of Arnside and husband of Mrs Beatrice Shepherd of the Imperial Café, Grange over Sands. He is commemorated on the Chatby memorial, on the Eastern side of Alexandria.

The Aragon had sailed from Marseilles on 17th December 1917, laden with 2700 troops bound for the conflicts in Palestine. Having sailed in convoy, the rest of the convoy sailed on to Alexandria while Aragon waited ten miles offshore for her escort.

She was torpedoed by the German sub UC34 and quickly sunk. The destroyer HMS Attack dashed to her rescue and picked up many men, before being torpedoed by the same submarine, which almost blew her in two.

380 officers and men of the Commonwealth forces were lost.

Born in 1878 in Lupton, Kendal, in 1881, aged 1, John was living with his parents at Brow Foot, Lupton. His father was a farmer.

In 1891, the family lived at Station Road, Arnside. His parents and John are listed as Grocers. By now there were six children in the family.

In 1901, John, aged 21 was listed as a groom. His parents and sister, Marie were listed as confectioners and they lived at the shop on "Seabreeze".

Only four of the children lived there at this time.

In 1906, John married Sarah Beatrice Owen in Carnavon and in 1911, the couple lived in Main Street, Grange over Sands, running their own confectioners shop, with four live in assistants. In 1909, they advertised in the Grange Red Books.

Their son, Harold Owen Shepherd had been born in 1908. He and his mother continued to live at the Imperial Café, until Sarah died, aged 70 in 1946. They sold cakes and ices, sweets and catered by arrangement. Harold had married Margaret Coupe in 1933 and he remained in Grange, running the shop until at least 1976. Harold died in 1981, aged 73.
