Information about the church

(taken from John Nichols 'History and Antiquities of Leicestershire' written C1790)

Evington, in ancient writings was known as Avintone. It is bounded by Humberston, Thurnby, Stoughton, Knighton and the suburbs of Leicester. It is about 3 miles distant from Leicester and in the ecclesiastical division of the county, is within the deanry of Gartre

Dedicated to St Dennis, the church consists of a bell tower (in which are three bells) a small spire, a south porch, a nave, chancel and two aisles, separated by four lofty arches over three of which are clerestory windows.

In a niche over a fine large window at the East end of the North aisle, is the figure of St Dennis, the patron saint.

Within the church, which is remarkably neat, is an old round font on a small round base, surrounded by four round pillars and a semicircular kneeling steps.

There is a piscine in the North-east corner of the North aisle and the pulpit is remarkably neat.

Diagram showing the position of the monuments in the churchyard and also the cemetery behind the church - August 2011

This diagram of the churchyard, (not to scale) shows the approximate site of each grave as recorded in the transcriptions.

The gravestones in the cemetery behind the church have been recorded in rows (R)

About the Project

The recording of the monumental inscriptions inside and outside the church was undertaken by members of the Family History Group of Great Glen U3A. All care has been taken to ensure accuracy of the transcription, however a visit to the church or churchyard to check with the original inscriptions is recommended.

Words from some inscriptions were unable to be read for reasons such as broken stones, writing worn away through time etc., and so some blank spaces may occur in the transcriptions. The aim was to record the words exactly as they are found on the stone – so variations in spelling are a common occurrence.

Some of the very old gravestones and floor slabs were transcribed and published in 1798 in a book called 'The History and Antiquities of Leicestershire' by John Nichols and this can be seen at the County Record Office. Where the script was found to be unreadable, a few words may have been taken from these transcripts and identified in [] brackets to help the researcher.

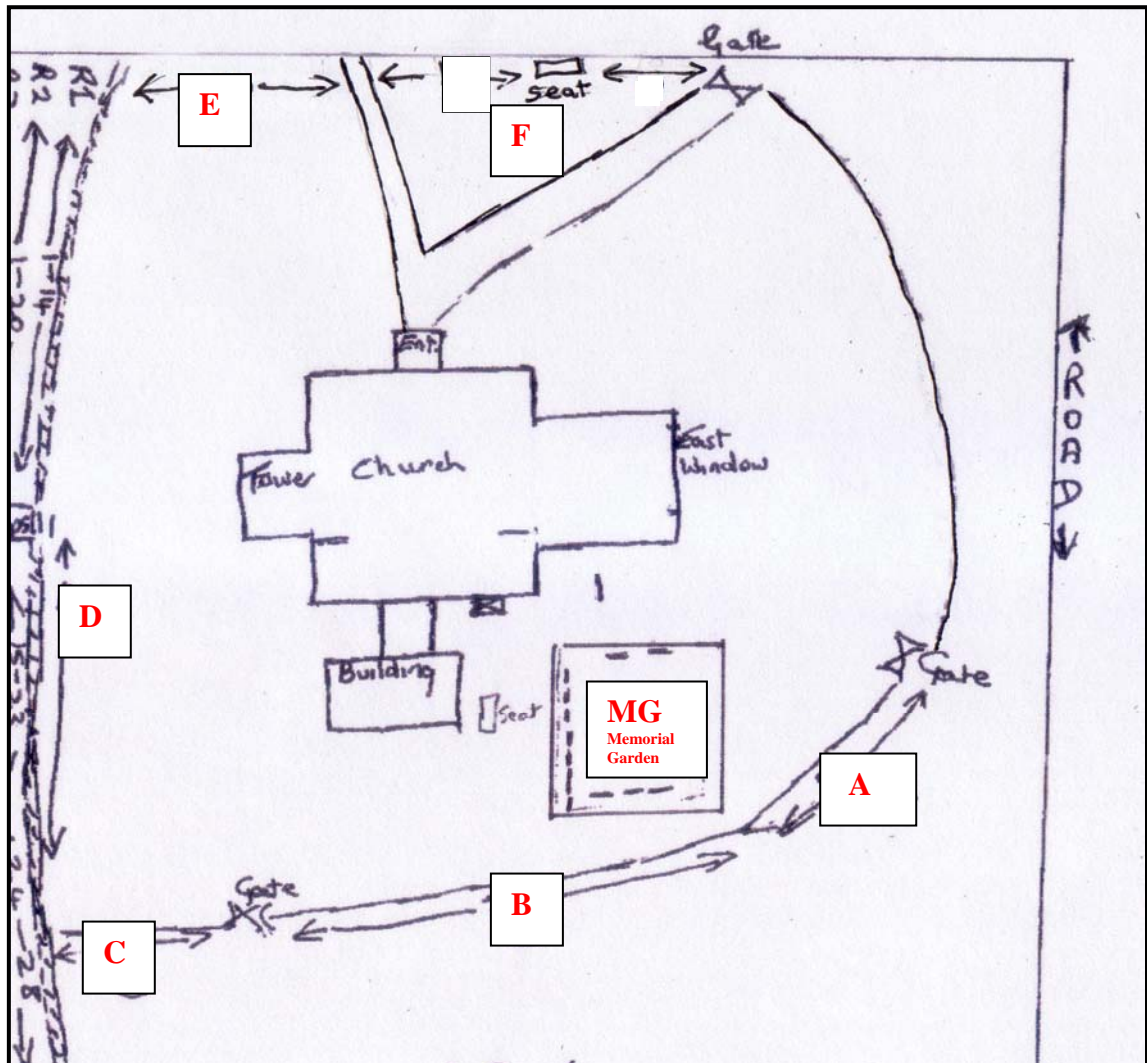

These recordings are also posted on the Leicestershire Villages Web Site – under the section of Leicester <http://www.leicestershirevillages.com/leicester/>

A Wall Hanging inside the church giving a list of Vicars

There are two books of remembrance in the church near the pulpit

1. Presented in memory of MARTIN GOODE by his wife PAM 2001- this book has names of those whose ashes are interred / scattered in the garden of remembrance near the porch. This garden has no memorials, and so the book is the only record.
2. This is a book of names for anyone wishing to commemorate the death of a loved one, either cremated remains or burials.
