

'Guys and Dolls' at the Bridge Theatre, London

Matinee performance – Thursday 18th April 2024

Price £62.00 to include coach and a seat in Stalls or £52.00 to include coach and a seat in Gallery 1

Luck be a lady tonight! Be swept up with the thrills of Manhattan and Havana and join all the characters as they walk the New York streets, sip a cocktail at the Cuban bars, and take a trip to the Salvation Army..... This is not a traditional performance of the musical, as the theatre has been transformed, and we will watch from our seats which wrap around the action as it unfolds on stage and in the immersive public pit.

The Guys and Dolls musical follows Nathan Detroit, a Manhattan gambler who needs to find a new location for his crap shooting games, pronto. He's helped by Sky Masterson, who takes a chance on Nathan, settling their deal on a bet: Nathan bets Sky that he can't take a woman of his choosing on a date. But as they meet their 'doll', Sarah Brown, the odds of falling in love go down until it's almost inevitable. Includes well-known favourites such as Sit Down, You're Rocking the Boat, A Bushel and a Peck as well as Luck be a Lady Tonight.

NB - some seats are slightly higher, with back and arm rests and foot rest in front.

The theatre is situated near to Tower Bridge. We aim to arrive in time for you to have a look around the area where there is always something to see along the river side, buy your own lunch at one of the many places available, or take a picnic.
