

INTERIM NEWSLETTER

Dear gu3a members,

I'm afraid this interim newsletter is for our digital members only, although if you are an email buddy for one of our analogue members, please do pass some of this one on.

One of our members, David Pearce, has made a YouTube training video explaining how to use Zoom. It has the advantage of being able to be infinitely rewound and replayed and he never gets bored or irritated! If you have still not got the hang of Zoom, <https://youtu.be/TjqwfadShrI> should be able to help you. We also have a Zoom helpline at: zoomhelp@guildfordu3a.org.uk.

The University of Surrey is hosting a week of events in November as part of the Economic and Social Research Council's Festival of Social Science. All the events are hosted online, are free and cover a range of interesting and very relevant topics, from how to thrive in lockdown to parenting in a pandemic. For more information about the festival as well as links to each individual event, please go to <https://www.surrey.ac.uk/news/social-scientists-explore-themes-forefront-2020-free-online-events>.

Some of you will know this already but I have come across a really handy website which will give you the latest incidence of Covid-19 within any given postcode. Please go to <https://coronavirus-staging.data.gov.uk/details/interactive-map>

May I please remind you again that there are £434 in uncashed cheques which have been sent as refunds for cancelled study days. If you have one of them, cash it soon as it will shortly be out of date and no longer valid.

We put our clocks back last weekend so it is now impossible not to notice the shorter days. Do make the most of our online offer and keep yourselves happily busy over the coming colder months. We all need something positive to brighten our days!

With very best wishes,

Julie Beattie
