On 3rd of July, 11 intrepid researchers found their way to the small market town of Bungay on their monthly search for good ale, good company and a nice lunch.

They were again following a pleasing and sun kissed trip by omnibus along the Bungay straight, an old Roman Road with few bends able to visit the garden of the Green Dragon -- sampling 4 ales -- 3 of which were a delight along with the stronger liquorish tasting summer warmer which had a more mixed reception. A gentle stroll through town then lead the ever-enquiring minds to The Castle Inn -- where again in the shady garden two more ales were gently sipped. The ever pleasant and consistent Victoria from The Earl Soham brewery and the new more locally brewed Bull in the Woods beer.
