

Graham Sutherland

Graham is a member of the Ancient and Honourable Guild of Town Criers: the Loyal Company of Town Criers: Guild of Registered Tourist Guides: Institute of Registered Tourist Guiding: Heart of England Tourist Guides Association: Society of Authors.

Being a retired police inspector who has lived most of his life in the Midlands, it is an area he knows well. Until 31 December 2014 he was Warwick`s Town Crier so he does not have a problem being heard! He is also a member of the Inn Signs Society and hold the position of Official Ale Taster to Warwick Court Leet.

In addition to being a tourist guide, Graham is much in demand as a speaker on a considerable number of local topics.

Writing is another of his interests, both fiction and non-fiction, several of which complement his talks.

Being passionately fond of the Heart of England Region, Graham enjoys sharing his knowledge of this area and its many colourful, and sometimes infamous characters.
