

Further information

This talk is a journey through time-telling over the centuries, showing the development and improvement of time telling devices from sundial and water clocks through the introduction of mechanical clocks, railway time, domination of pendulum devices to the atomic clock. John suggests that we fasten our seat belts as he takes us through a journey of 3 centuries in just 60 minutes.