

Stob Fear- tomhais Glen Buckie

Nine group members set off from Broxden P & R and travelled to Balquhiddier Glen, then parked at Ballimore. We started along the right of way towards Brig o Turk, which was extremely wet after several days of rain. Initial steep slopes led to the ridge of the Corbett, Stob Fear-tomhais, our target for the day. Easier walking along the ridge in increasingly poor weather, with extremely strong winds and rain beginning by the time the trig point was reached.

A hasty retreat was made to return to lower levels and a late lunch back at the bridge. On the return we decided to make use of the farm track to avoid the return to some of the boggy sections. Despite a locked deer gate this proved a sensible decision.

A pleasant coffee and cake at Mhor84 in the main village soon warmed us up again.

We set off along a rough track

A view back down the valley

We reach the old bridge which provided the stopping place for both our coffee breaks on the way up and our lunch break on the return.

The bridge had seen better days

At the trig point at the summit of Stob Fear -tomhais (771m). The weather limited the desire for too much admiring of the view.
