

Creag Mac Ranaich August 1st

Seven walkers set off from Broxden on a sunny morning heading for Lochearnhead. The target for the day was the Corbett, Creag Mac Ranaich. A climb up from the village on to the former Callander to Oban railway line gave access to a good track in Glen Kendrum which led to the base of the hill. A steep climb towards the twin summits followed and panoramic views were enjoyed in every direction. After a stop for lunch at the top and a careful descent, there was a pleasant return walk back to Lochearnhead, before a stop for refreshments at Comrie Croft. A very enjoyable day.

Total distance aprox 10.5 miles, ascent 2,380 ft. Time taken 5 hrs.

At the start of the walk

Our path runs along the top of this old bridge

A crossing point. Fortunately, with the lack of rain, the burn causes no holdup

A gradual climb up on a very good path.

Coffee-stop before the main ascent

The way up and the way down

At one of the two summits on Creag Mac Ranaich, looking over to the second summit

Time to take in the view

Another view from the summit

On the return path down the hill

Dropping down the hill

A last look back at Creag Mac Ranaich