

Time Through the Ages.

A journey through time telling over the centuries showing the development and improvement of time telling devices from the sundial through to the atomic clock.

Includes the rise and fall of the industry in the United Kingdom.

Extra time.

Forty Thousand people lost their lives in Sri Lanka in the Tsunami of 2004. This story pays tribute to them but covers details of how my wife and myself survived, including the escape and what happened next. The latter includes a return to the country, providing employment but also to encourage overseas investment in order to help local people. It also explains how we overcame problems in operating in the country but then faced further challenges.

Come Fly with Me.

This is an illustrated talk of places where I have worked over the continents of Africa, America, Asia and Europe.

Listeners will learn about Car Parts in New York to Call Centres in New Delhi; Beaches in Sri Lanka to Bungalows in Spain; Bistros in Portugal to Bars in Pittsburgh and Moonlight in Malta to Moonshine in Miami.

It is aimed at being entertaining as personal experiences brings places to life but also shows the development which has happened in different parts of the world throughout the working life of the speaker.
