

Uninstall an unwanted programme

To remove an unwanted programme, you need to use the uninstall programme in the control panel which will also remove links to other common files on you computer.

Go to the start icon and left click on Control panel.

This screen shows all the programmes that are installed on your computer.

Search for the programme you wish to remove.

Highlight the programme you want to remove. In this example I have chosen a program called Yenka, although I am not uninstalling it.

Left click on Uninstall at the top of the screen and follow the instructions.

If the programme is not listed, it may have been deliberately hidden. This would need further investigation.
