Speaker: Gary Ashby, English Heritage The Roundhouse at Beeston

2023 started off with a talk at our monthly meeting by Tom Jones. Tom is a Chester Tour Guide and his talk was an insight into the background, purpose, and some of the inhabitants of Chester Zoo. Fifty-three members and two new members joined us which was very good considering how bad the weather has been recently.

Our website provides more information on recent talks and details about interest group activities https://u3asites.org.uk/west-cheshire/home

A warm welcome to two new members, Joy and Peter Buckland who have joined West Cheshire Rural u3a.

Interest Group information

If members have ideas for new interest groups or a hobby that they would perhaps like to share with others, please contact Mike Woollard. Mike can give you guidance on setting up a group.

Quiz

There is a new Quiz ' Homophone towns and cities' on the u3a website plus the answers to 'An A in Science'.

Ukulele Group

Our new opening warm up song for the new year is "Side by Side" and we have also added two new songs, a "When You're Smiling" medley and "A World of our Own".

Sunday Lunch Group

The Sunday lunch group will resume this month with a visit to the Cock O' Barton. As the number in the group has grown, we will try to book two tables of 6 (which may or may not be adjacent) so we can accommodate as many members as possible.

Cryptic Crosswords

The group meets in the Barbour on alternate Mondays at 2pm. We go through two crosswords each time, one is slightly more difficult than the other but neither is too challenging. The intention is to have fun while learning a new cognitive skill. If you want to try out one of the crosswords we attempted this week, I have reproduced it at the end of the bulletin.

Poetry Group

The theme for our first poetry session of the new year, led by Sheila, was Recovery and as usual it inspired many interesting and varied poems. Here is the list of the poems we read.

From joy's loveliest Ocean – Rabindranath Tagore
Sick Room – Billy Collins
Hold your own - Sajeeda Hasanjee
Locking yourself out, then trying to get back in – Raymond Carver

Lost Things – Lina Patel

After an Illness, walking the dog – Jane Kenyon

Beannacht, A new year blessing – John O'Donaghue
Ring out wild bells – Alfred, Lord Tennyson
In lieu of flowers – Sawna Lemay
A winter blue jay - Sara Teasdale
Our lives are one big puzzle – Erin Hanson
The glory of the garden – Rudyard Kipling
Recharge – Elizard Breazth
Being Boring – Wendy Cope

Tomorrow has your name on it – Roger McGough

Sheila had prepared some short clips from poems that we had read during the last couple of years. It was interesting how many of these we could recall from the small section that was read. Sometimes it was the words that we remembered or the construction or rhythm of the poems which were synonymous with a particular poet.

In February the theme is Narrative, so the chance to look out those poems that tell a story and really paint a picture in our imagination. In March the theme is Flowers, and in April it will be the Scottish Poets.

Our first main group, shorter walk of the year was on Thursday 12th January. Ten of us, led by Jill, met on the National Trust carpark next to Cheshire Workshop in Burwardsley. We began our walk by going down Pennsylvania Lane to see the wooden sculpture of Phineus Pheasant. We had originally intended walking a loop behind the pub, but in view of the very wet conditions underfoot decided to retrace our steps and walk up Hill Lane. At the top, we followed the track near the wood to Peckforton gap. Then up Bulkeley Hill where we stopped for refreshments, then down the far side and right down quiet lanes to the carpark.

The long walk of just over 6 miles was led by Sheila and David around Chester. Fourteen of us met at the Little Owl and walked to the far end of the Countess of Chester Nature Reserve, then back towards Chester via the canal towpath, along the banks of the Dee behind the racecourse, under Grosvenor Bridge and through the Little Roodee to the Walls and back to the Little Owl. It was a flat walk which was punctuated by lots of interesting local information. We were lucky to have fine weather with just a little light breeze.

Monday Mini Walks

On Monday January 2nd eight of us met up in Holt. We were originally planning to meet by the Dee in Farndon, but as you can see by the photo that this carpark was under water!

The group met in Threapwood on the 9th January. We walked a loop of around 4 miles down quiet country lanes and a bridlepath on a surprisingly fine morning. Afterwards we were invited to Teresa's home for coffee and delicious cake.

The third walk of January was from the Yeld carpark. We walked the usual 4 mile walk up to Pale Heights then down to the Visitor Centre for coffee. From there back to the cars via Nettleton Woods which unlike the rest of the walk, was predictably muddy underfoot. The weather was fine and sunny, if a little bracing when we were in windy areas. ☆ ☆

The walk on Monday 23rd January, started at Gresty's Waste carpark for a walk of about 5 miles up tracks to Primrose Woods. A lovely winter's day where the patches of snow still covered the paths in sheltered areas. Afterwards most of us went for refreshments at Okells cafe.
